WHAT IS THE LIVINGSTON COUNTY FOUNDATION?

The Livingston County Foundation (LCF) is a Michigan non-profit corporation and charitable trust formed to receive bequests and contributions of both real and personal property, as well as monetary donations used to benefit the residents of Livingston County.

The LCF was originally created when long-time resident Owen J. Lutz bequeathed the County 302 acres of real property, together with cash and liquid assets, instructing that this gift be designated for use as a county park and conference center for the exclusive use and benefit of all Livingston County residents.

LCF is a Registered Charitable Trust able to receive and administer funds and assets exclusively for charitable or educational purposes for the benefit of Livingston County or its residents. It is a non-profit 501(c)(3) corporation as permitted by the Internal Revenue Code and all contributions are deductible under Sections 170(c)(2), 2055(a), and 2522(a)(2).

HOW CAN I CONTRIBUTE TO THE LCF?

Tax deductible donations can be designated for any use that benefits the residents of Livingston County. The LCF affords contributors the opportunity to donate at a level in which they are comfortable. Investors are also able to make contributions in installment. Installment giving provides the investor with the opportunity to spread out payments over the course of the fiscal year, therefore, maximizing your contributions at a level in which you are comfortable.

Past contributions have ranged from property donations, like that the late Raymond Fillmore's 198-acre "open space" bequest, to simple monetary gifts to the County.

The LCF is the recipient of other foundations' generosity as well, like the ROBERT W. & MAXINE C. PARKER FOUNDATION, which has annually donated funds for use in developing the Lutz County Park.
